DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1, 1-8, 11-14, 19-21, 23-29, 31-34 and 37-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kollipara et al. [US 6,590,781].

Kollipara et al. disclose a memory module [figure 15a] comprising a substrate [152a] having first and second opposite edges; a plurality of memory devices [153a, b] disposed on the substrate; a plurality of substantially linear channel conductors each having lengths that are approximately equal extending between the opposite edges, wherein each of the plurality of memory devices is coupled to one of the plurality channels; and electrical contacts at the opposite edges [column 9, lines 4-9].

Art Unit: 2841

Regarding claim 7. Kollipara et al. discloses an assembly comprising a first and second substrates [152a and b, figure 15a] each having a plurality semiconductor devices [153a-d] thereon; contacts mounted at each end of the substrates; a plurality of substantially linear channels conductors each having lengths that are approximately equal interconnected between the contacts and the semiconductor devices; and a connector [154] configured to communicatively couple the first and second channels through the contacts of the first and second substrates wherein the first connector engages contact at the end of the first substrate and engages contacts at a first of the end of the second substrate.

Regarding claims 19-21, 23 and 31-38, Kollipara et al. disclose wherein the multiple substrates are being connected to a mother board [150] via connectors [151's].

Regarding claims 24-29, the claimed method steps are inherent to the product structure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2, 3 and 15-18, 30, 35, 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kollipara et al. [US 6,590,781].

Kollipara et al. disclose the instant claimed invention [figure 15a] except for: the substrate having first and second sides with the plurality of memory devices and channel conductors disposed on both sides thereof.

Kollipara et al. teaches that is known to have a memory module including a substrate having a first and second sides with the plurality of memory devices and channel conductors disposed on both sides thereof [figure 4].

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to include a plurality of memory devices and channel on both sides of the device purpose of increasing memory capacity.

Regarding claims 15-18, Kollipara et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for: the specific number of substrates used.

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to use additional substrates with the design of Kollipara et al. for the purpose of providing additional memory capacities.

Regarding claim 29, the claimed method step would have been necessitated by the product structure.
